Dear Dr. Groisser,

I am writing this letter to express my extreme respect and gratitude for your treatment of my chronic Psoriatic condition.

I have suffered from Psoriasis since I was eight years old. Throughout my youth, adolescence, and adulthood, my psoriasis has covered varying and major portions of my body. Anyone who suffers with this condition knows the pains of the itching and tightness of our skin, as well as the mental anguish from unknowing onlookers and our own battered self image.

Fellow suffers and I also know of the vast array of remedies which offer transient reliefs, but never cures. These remedies usually involve unsightly and messy creams, as well medications with other side effects sometimes worse than psoriasis itself.

Two months ago, however, you started me on a new treatment called Enbrel. Even though the medication had to be self-administered through a subcutaneous injection, I gladly jumped at the chance to try anything new which might help my condition. My career as a research scientist has always fueled my enthusiasm to experiment with new and safe remedies.

You and your great staff assured me that the side effects of Enbrel were minimal-to-none, and I found after being taught how to inject the medication, that administration was easy and not painful in the least.

Six weeks later I began noticing differences that I could only describe as "miraculous", and two weeks after that, I noticed even more clearing of my psoriasis lesions. I did not use any other creams or medications during this time, so as to see if Enbrel's effects were solely those of the drug. I am convinced that the clearing of my psoriatic lesions were completely due to the action of Enbrel.

This treatment has changed my life. In two short months, my psoriasis has cleared up to over 95%. There have been NO side effects whatsoever, except for my new love of wearing short pants and short-sleeved shirts! I thank you for your hand in this amazing change in my life, and I implore any other patients who may be reluctant to undergo such treatments to reconsider this amazing new treatment that could be within their grasp. I would go as far as to speak to any patient or professional in the field who may be reluctant to use Enbrel. Please let me know if I can' assist in any way to spread this message to other's who suffer from Psoriasis.

With gratitude and much respect,

Michael
